

They got rattan (warawa) from another village. They cut them and sent them for two girls. At that time they were dancing. Gana Jiwo was dancing and the girls said, "We'll take that boy as our husband." One girl was Baya Susuki<sup>2</sup> and the other was Siruva Susuki<sup>3</sup>. Gana Jiwo got those two girls and they went. They were going and the rain was coming. The two girls said to Gana Jiwo, "You build a house; the rain is coming!" The rain came as they said this. When the rain came Baya Susuki was melting away<sup>4</sup>. Siruva Susuki said, "You see that?" I told you to build it but you didn't, so I'm going to stay here." "O.k. then. If you grow up and you bear fruit I will come and drop all of them down to the ground."

---

1. Green and red parrot.

2. Sago

3. A kind of bush tree, used for canoes.

4. Fifirin -- dissolving.